

Is it better

to have loved and lost

than to never have loved at all?

When people tell me that it is, I always thought it was ridiculous

What's the point of having a good thing if it's gonna get taken away?

Is love and loss intertwined?

Why do I have to lose it all just to appreciate it?

If I love something

Honey~

Why would I let it go?

If I were to lose everything

Honey!

Hmm..?

Why would I bother loving anyone at all?

You're gonna be late to your checkup!

Oh, shit..

You should've woken me up with you..

I wanted to, but you just looked so peaceful~

Did you sleep well??

Mhm~

I don't know why they still want me to do checkups..

It's not like I'm in Sector 1 anymore.

But I need you to be strong and healthy

So we can be together for a long time!

Well.. Since you put it that way..

That worked? Then will you make me Wagyu tonight so I can be healthy with you for a long time, too?

Nope~

OW OW OW!!

Get out of bed, smartass.

Sooo violent..

I actually had a dream about us, you know.

And you were soooo cute and sweet~

You had your head on my shoulders

We watched the sunset..

And on your hand was..

??

What?

Flushed

What was on my hand??

-I forgot..

Idiot..