

A Gods Tale

Before everything, before humans and animals, before trees and houses, before rivers and the sky there were the Gods. They lived in the Morpalass, a sentient building in the shape of a palace made of flesh and bones, that was in the middle of nothing.

The Gods lived there until they decided to create the world as we know it. They were caring, jealous, loving and furious to each other just as we humans are, and this short story focuses on that.

On their palace, the Gods Kjekkk and Pen, the first being a tall and athletic warrior and the second a graceful and thin musician, lived a good life. They were bonded to each other as husband and wife, and the Gods were jealous of Kjekkk because Pen was the most beautiful Goddess in the palace.

The Gods were no different than us, and so there was a God who was specially jealous of Kjekkk because his wife, Pen, was extremely busty, thin as she was. Smultring was a lazy and fat God, only interested in pleasuring himself, and he thought that the bigger the woman's breasts, the more pleasure he could have.

He was so short-minded that he thought that Kjekkk only loved Pen because of the incredible size of her breasts, and so he challenged him. He said, in front of every other God in the palace, that Kjekkk was only interested in Pen because of her breasts, and both Pen and Kjekkk got infuriated.

The other Gods had to separate Kjekkk from Smultring, to avoid the first from killing the latter. However, now all the Gods had this idea in their minds. Was really Kjekkk only interested in Pen because of her breasts?

To answer this question, the Morpalass decided to shrink Pen's breasts to almost nothing, making her look flat as the floor. Kjekkk observed Pen and looked at her blue eyes, and all the Gods could see that Kjekkk was still in love with her.

Smultring didn't know what to say. He just wanted to make Kjekkk angry, but he still loved Pen. The Morpalass, now sure that Kjekkk still loved Pen, decided to remove Smultring from the palace, and his powers became Pen's. Her breasts started growing again, even bigger than before, but so was the rest of her. Now, she was the Goddess of music, laziness, hunger and lust, and her body grew accordingly to her powers, until she was even fatter than Smultring ever was.

Her face had multiple chins, her huge breasts resting on her sides and her enormous and hungry belly were on display on her room, as her fat fingers played and composed music while Kjekkk fed the lusty Goddess with every treat that he could find, and then, multiple times a day, Kjekkk would find himself having fun between the titanic legs of the Goddess, in a sea of lust and pleasure.