

Remembrance

A TG story by Alloner

When left to its own devices, without anything to do, the human mind will invariably start exploring its own dark and often ignored sections; as such, it's not hard to imagine that all those moments during which our thoughts are held hostage by overwhelming nostalgia, it is but our own mind trying to find comfort where it is no longer needed...

Perhaps it will happen tonight, maybe you will wake up at an odd time, still under the nocturnal veil, or maybe you just won't be able to fall asleep due to reliving those peculiar memories... Yes... Was that year of your college life really that good? That party was pretty lousy, you remember that much for sure... But there is something else to it, something that makes you yearn for that party. But tonight... Tonight it's different... As boring and inconsequential as that party was, you can't help but remember all the stuff that you heard about it, all the delicious rumors that spice up even the smallest reunion. Particularly, ah yes, particularly that girl, what was her name? The cute Asian who had a different boyfriend every weekend... She was cute, she totally had fun that night...

Yes, she was rather petite, her skin had a beautiful tan, her small eyes were so expressive, specially when she was with her boyfriend, she was living her college life to the maximum. Her small waist made her hips seem even wider than what they actually were, can you feel that? Her perky butt and modest breasts were easily shadowed by those of any white girl's, but it wasn't the size that mattered, but rather how you used them, right? Yeah it sure was a fun night, in fact, due to the party being so boring, your boyfriend managed to get you in the mood... Yeah, that was fun for sure... Stroking that white cock is so fun... After all, you should try to fill your college years with happy, fun memories...