

Jack &
Jill

Dramatis Personae
Part 2

ANTON & YASIR

Anton and Yasir Johnson are identical twins who have always been inseparable. They both attended medical school and decided to specialize in anesthesiology and nursing, respectively. After completing their training, they were eager to put their skills to use and were thrilled when they were approached by Dr. Elizabeth Hatcher to join her team at Second Dawn's Clinic 12.

At first, Anton and Yasir had no idea what went on at the clinic, but they were drawn to the opportunity to work with a renowned plastic surgeon and the generous pay offered by Second Dawn. They soon discovered that the clinic was a place where young men were captured and subjected to a series of surgeries and treatments designed to feminize them.

While some may have been disturbed by this revelation, Anton and Yasir saw it as a chance to hone their skills and make a name for themselves in the medical community. They threw themselves into their work, assisting Dr. Hatcher with the various surgeries and treatments offered at the clinic.

One of the young men they assisted with was Jack, whose facial feminization surgery and orchiectomy were performed by Dr. Hatcher with the help of Anton and Yasir. Despite the questionable nature of their work, Anton and Yasir have no compunctions about working for Second Dawn. They see it as a way to advance their careers and live comfortable lives. They have no regrets about their involvement with the clinic, and are committed to maintaining their loyalty to Mr. Xu and his organization.

STACY

Stacy was 22 years old when her boyfriend Holden was kidnapped by armed men while they were staying at the Monroe family villa in Italy. The two were actually in the midst of making love when the men broke in and kidnapped Holden. Stacy was left behind, watching helplessly as her boyfriend was taken away in a helicopter. She contacted Holden's father, Thomas Monroe, to let him know what had happened, and waited anxiously for news of Holden's return.

That news never came. Despite moving on to other relationships, Stacy never lost hope that Holden would be found safe and returned to her.

Tragically, that hope was shattered when Thomas Monroe was assassinated, leaving Stacy to believe that Holden was surely dead as well. With no members of the Monroe family still living, she took it upon herself to arrange a funeral for both Thomas and Holden.

Eventually, Stacy found some measure of happiness by marrying a man from Dubai. Though the memory of Holden and the trauma of his kidnapping still lingered, she was able to build a new life for herself and move forward.

Holly checks in on Stacy from time to time. On occasion, she even attends Stacy's many charity functions (twice with Mr. Xu). Part of her always hopes Stacy might recognize her, despite how dangerous that would be for both of them. So far, however, Stacy has simply viewed Holly as just another socialite in in a cocktail dress.

CLARISSA

Clarissa is a talented beautician and trans woman with a passion for makeup and self-expression. She spent many years living and working in Italy, honing her skills and building a loyal clientele among the social elite. Wealthy women from Milan to Rome spoke highly of her impeccable aesthetic and style.

Mr. Xu heard of her stellar reputation through his social circles in Italy. He hired her for a seemingly simple job: a makeover at one of his many homes for a “newly hatched” trans woman named Holly. Unbeknownst to Clarissa, Holly was actually Holden Monroe, a young man who’d been kidnapped by Mr. Xu and was being forcibly transitioned into a woman.

Despite the unusual circumstances, Clarissa did an excellent job with Holden. Months later, she was hired by Mr. Xu to give a “drag queen” makeover to a domestic abuser named Angelo, which she saw as a well-deserved prank.

Little did Clarissa know her involvement with Mr. Xu and Second Dawn was just beginning. After she moved back to the United States, she was approached by Mr. Xu once again. He offered her a lucrative job performing makeovers and teaching makeup skills to disenfranchised trans women at what he claimed was a charitable medical center off the coast of the Pacific Northwest. Clarissa happily accepted and was periodically flown to the island.

However, as she worked with more and more of the “trans women” at Clinic 12, Clarissa began to suspect something was amiss. Those she worked with didn’t seem to experience the usual gender euphoria most trans women do after a successful makeover. Instead, they looked terrified when they saw their reflection in the mirror. Soon, she began to suspect the truth: these were cis men who were being forced to transition.

Eventually, she began to decline Mr. Xu’s offers of employment, even as he offered more and more money. She knew that she couldn’t continue to turn a blind eye to the injustices happening at Clinic 12. However, she also knows that she is being watched and that her phone and emails may have been hacked. Clarissa lives in constant fear that her suspicions may be discovered and wishes that there was some way she could help the young men trapped on the island.

JASON / JANELLE

Jason was an experienced agent for Delphi Global, a private security firm known for its expertise in corporate espionage. He relished the challenges of undercover work and the satisfaction of outsmarting his opponents.

When a shell corporation hired Delphi to investigate Xu and his dealings, Jason was assigned to track down Thomas Monroe's son, Holden. Operating out of Italy, he'd been working both with and against the Cosa Nostra when he received the assignment.

Using a fictitious identity, Jason was hired by Second Dawn and eventually located Holden, now known as Holly. But as he got closer to her, he found himself inexplicably drawn to Holly, and it seemed that she shared his affections. Despite knowing it was against the mission parameters, Jason gave in to his desires.

After Holly was attacked by Davis, Jason took matters into his own hands and kicked Davis unconscious. He fled to the Italian countryside with her, but their escape was short-lived. They were captured by Xu's agents the following day.

As punishment for his disloyalty, Jason was himself forcibly transitioned and was used as a test subject for the new artificial, gene-targeted hormones developed by Dr. Mason. This caused his feminization to progress at an accelerated rate and with impressive results. The transformation was a nightmare for Jason, who struggled to accept his new identity as Janelle.

Afterward, Janelle was forced to work as a maid at one of Xu's estates in India while she "got used" to being female. However, Xu eventually began to exploit Janelle, using her as a pawn to entertain his business associates. He even took her to Second Dawn functions to showcase his new techniques.

Despite her hardships, Janelle managed to reconnect with her colleagues at Delphi. She had no contact with Holly for years, but she dreamed of the day when she'd be reunited with the woman she'd grown to care for deeply.

Eventually, Janelle was contacted by a woman named "Emily." She claimed to be the sister of a man named Jack who, she suspected, had been kidnapped by Second Dawn. Janelle was all too happy to help.

ANGELO / ANGELA

Angelo was a tough guy with a soft heart, at least that's what his wife Alessia thought when they first met in secondary school and fell in love. But as time passed, Angelo began to hide his true self behind a tough-guy mask. Eventually, that mask became his face and he began to take out his inner turmoil on Alessia with physical and emotional abuse.

Though he had promised to never join the Cosa Nostra, Angelo eventually gave in and worked as an enforcer for the wealthy and powerful. It was through this job that he found his way to the manor where Holly was being held, taking the role of Davis' second-in-command in security. When Holly and Jason attempted to escape, Angelo tried to stop them, but Holly managed to grab his gun. Overcome with rage at what had been done to her, Holly shot Angelo in the crotch. The bullet destroyed his testicles and severely damaged his penis.

Mr. Xu paid for Angelo's surgeries but only on the condition that he work for Xu to pay off the € 90,000 debt. Angelo had no choice but to agree, as no one would hire a "castrato" for security work.

As time went on, Xu learned of Angelo's abusive behavior towards Alessia and—with her permission—began to covertly transition him into a woman. Instead of giving him the testosterone he needed, Xu's doctors prescribe estrogen. Eventually, Angelo was forced to become Angela, Mr. Xu's executive assistant.

Angela and Alessia eventually divorced. However, the feminization had a strange effect on Angela. Her old sensitive and loving side resurfaced and she and Alessia began a new, better relationship as friends. Angela was even Alessia's maid of honor when she remarried.

As Angela settled into her new role as Xu's executive assistant, she found she enjoyed serving people and making them happy. She even reconciled with Holly and the two became close friends and occasional lovers. Despite the difficult circumstances that led her to this point, Angela began to embrace her new identity.

Recently, Mr. Xu offered to pay for Angela's gender confirmation surgery, and she accepted.

MARTINA

Martina is an older Italian woman who has lived in the northern Italy countryside for most of her life. She grew up in a small village, the youngest of five children. Her parents were poor farmers who worked hard to provide for their family.

Despite their struggles, Martina's parents instilled in her a strong sense of pride and determination. They encouraged her to work hard and pursue her dreams, no matter how difficult they might seem.

As a young woman, Martina was drawn to the Cosa Nostra, an underground criminal organization that operated in Italy. She saw it as a way to rise above her humble beginnings and make a name for herself. She quickly proved herself to be a valuable member of the organization, using her intelligence and resourcefulness to outsmart her enemies.

Over the years, Martina became known as a skilled enforcer and a fierce protector of those she cared about. She learned how to stitch up bullet wounds and tend to other injuries, always ready to face whatever challenges came her way.

Despite her tough exterior, Martina has a soft spot for those in need. When Jason and Holly fled to her house after escaping Second Dawn, she welcomed them with open arms and did everything she could to help.

Jason, who called Martina "the Italian grandmother he never had," was particularly close to her. He had always admired her strength and determination, and was grateful for her help in his time of need.

EMILY

Emily was always the good girl, the apple of her father's eye. While her brother Jack was an adept athlete, Emily was the consummate student. She had been a bright, curious child and she was accepted into college at the age of fourteen. She graduated top of her class and was accepted into a prestigious law school in New York.

Emily and Jack were close as children, but their relationship was strained after she'd been accepted into college and was beginning to carve out her own path in life, while Jack was rebelling against their father's expectations. Despite this, Emily still loved her brother and was proud of him when he moved to Malibu.

Emily graduated law school at the top of her class, and her father was beyond proud to offer her a position at his firm. Emily accepted, although she was anxious to start her own practice.

It was while working at her father's firm that Emily met Connor, an Air Force Intelligence Officer stationed in California. She found herself drawn to his ambition and drive, and was amazed at the breadth of his knowledge. Connor was charmed by Emily's intelligence and poise, and the two quickly fell in love. They married shortly thereafter. Jack attended, but the tension between him and their father was still palpable.

After Jack's apparent drowning in Northern California, Emily was inconsolable. She threw herself into her work, but something about the official reports and witness testimonies didn't add up. But she pushed these thoughts out of her mind and tried to continue with her life.

That was, until her father had Jack legally declared dead. Infuriated, Emily refused to accept her brother's death, and she vowed to find out the truth. As she continued to work on the case, she developed connections with a group of people from the CIA who believed Jack and many other missing young men were alive and in the clutches of an international "sex cult" known as Second Dawn. With the help of her new contacts, Emily was able to get a lead on Jack's whereabouts and traveled to Central America to confront Dr. Mason, who they suspected was associated with the organization.