

Comfort

Kyrie, a pink-skinned tiefling with prominent horns and black eyes, she looks herself on the mirror as she hurriedly dresses. That's Kyrie's short routine every time she goes to see her boyfriend, Glen. She doesn't get nervous because Glen is a demanding person, but because she feels that she has never been able to fulfill the expectations that people around have of her, especially because she does not consider herself very smart. This has led Kyrie to always demand a lot of herself, especially in the relationship she establishes with her boyfriend, like that day, where even if there are approximately three hours until the date, she is dedicated to getting prepared long before to be ready for Glen. Then Kyrie rushes out of her house, even if it's several hours before her date, for her to be punctual at Glen's house waiting for him no matter how long it takes or if she even has to see Glen's sister's face, something that usually it is irritating to her since the two of them doesn't get along at all.

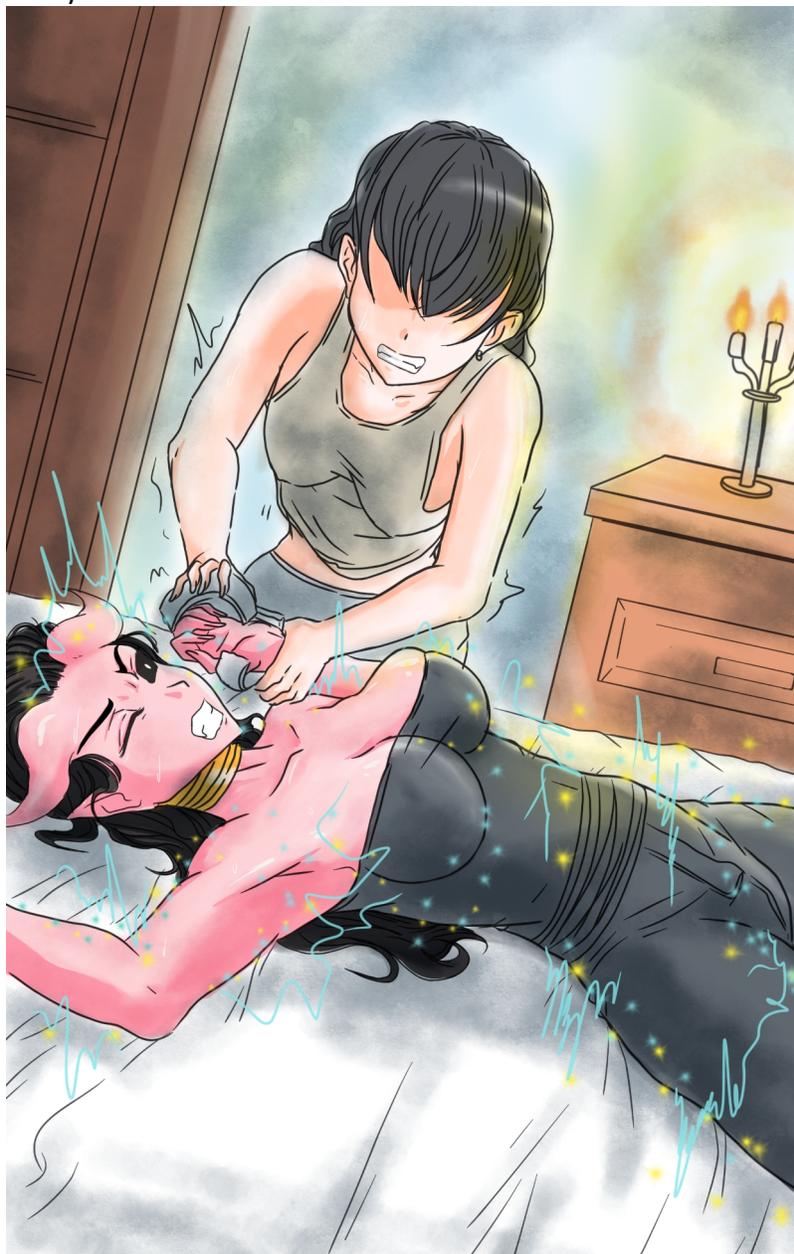

Kyrie, thoughtful as she rides a cab to Glen's house, wonders if she should have bought a gift or wrote a poem for her boyfriend, almost as if she were an indecisive teenager on her first date, even when she has been dating him for years and she is already very close to Glen. Also, she constantly undergoes a mental self-examination to determine if she really deserves Glen as her partner, a relationship that borders almost on an obsession with her boyfriend, especially in terms of what she must do to please him and give him whatever she thinks he needs. Is Kyrie's mind unable to be calm and stop stressing for a few minutes?

After several minutes of walking, Kyrie finally makes it to Glen's house. That's when she gets out of the taxi and looks at the time, easily realizing how early she has arrived, even with two hours until Glen gets to her house. Kyrie then proceeds to knock on the door and patiently wait for it to be opened. After several minutes, Glen's sister opens the door and shoots Kyrie a scornful look. Glen's sister did not expect to have her despicable visit, as she considers Kyrie an inferior and stupid person, and she is always looking for a way to get rid of Kyrie, and because of this, Glen's sister sometimes ends up in serious trouble with her brother.

On this occasion, Glen's sister is thinking, while Kyrie asks if she can come in to wait for Glen, since they have a date. Even if Glen's sister and Kyrie have a bad relationship and dislike each other, Kyrie always has a soft smile on her face, and she always tries to have a good relationship with Glen's sister, which is definitely not something in which Glen's sister is very collaborative; while, on the other hand, Glen's sister stared at Kyrie thoughtfully and gave Kyrie a smile, a certain grimace of disgust and dissatisfaction. What Glen's sister was thinking was, like it could even be otherwise, if she should leave Kyrie waiting in the garden, outside the house, in the sun, or if she should take advantage of Kyrie's visit to make her fall into another trap, something that is a lot of fun for Glen's sister, since, because of the strong dislike that Glen's sister has against Kyrie, she enjoys making Kyrie suffer deeply, no matter how severe the suffering Kyrie may be feeling at those moments.

That's when Glen's sister comes up with a great idea to scare Kyrie off. She has been learning some interesting spells (since she practices magic) that she could test on Kyrie, just being necessary to subdue her. Then Glen's sister decides to let Kyrie pass by feigning hospitality, an attitude that Kyrie sees as suspicious, as it is very unusual. Then Glen's sister tells Kyrie that she may be more comfortable in her room, since there are some inflatable balloon chairs that are particularly comfortable, request to which she, while she lifts an eyelash, she accepts Kyrie. After heading to Glen's sister's room, Kyrie looks around suspiciously. Then Glen's sister walks in and locks the door behind her. Then, Glen's sister, without wasting time, launches to surprise and subdue Kyrie against the bed, and to recite some strange prayers that came in the spell book, while she begins to project an energy similar to an electric discharge in Kyrie, which begins to change the composition and shape of her body. As she subdues and begins to transform Kyrie, she takes the opportunity to lock Kyrie, so she can concentrate on casting the spell while Kyrie is tied to the bed or furniture. The process is painful at times, to the point that Kyrie faints.

After a long period of being totally unconscious, Kyrie begins to regain the notion of his own existence and awakens. To Kyrie's little fortune, she wakes up from his lethargy and discovers that she cannot move, besides that she sees everything blurry. On the other hand, Kyrie feels very tight and heated, not knowing what is happening around her and she cannot express what she feels right now. Unfortunately for Kyrie, she has been turned into one of those inflatable seats by Glen's sister, while she enjoys it like a little girl to crush her with all of her weight. How long can she be like this before someone finds out the secret? Or, is the poor thing condemned to stay like this forever?
