

Chapters 24 - Energy.

Lukas said this; however, as soon as he tried to activate his ability called [Quick Movement], it didn't activate. His eyes widened as a new message appeared in front of his eyes.

[Time left until you can use the ability again - 11:42:34]

"What? Do I have a 12-hour cooldown to use the skill again? Are you kidding me?!" Lukas shouted without thinking. Marcus was reaching his limit and couldn't quite understand what he meant.

"Let's hurry up with this! They're coming!" The number of goblins had increased, so Lukas had to hurry up.

"Tsk" He clicked his tongue and activated [Deep Cut]. "Hey, Abarai, kill as much as you can. Make way for me, and when I ask you to back off, you back off."

"Huh? A right." Abarai was finally going into action. He took his great sword from his shoulder and wielded it. Lukas could understand why he was a gold card when he held his sword like that.

He is strong.

He was far from being the strongest character Lukas could take using the gacha, but he was strong enough to handle some goblins. Lukas wanted to see him in action to compare him to the [Players].

Could he be compared to a B Rank Player? Or an A-rank Player. He may also be as weak as a Player of Rank D, just as Lukas was.

'And there he goes.' Lukas watched Abarai run at high speed and pass Marcus. In a second, his great sword sliced several goblins in the front line in half, causing a bloodbath.

Abarai had a serious look on his face. He was not enjoying himself, unlike Lukas.

This may be too boring for him.

He just made movements in a monotonous way, not even using a skill or magic that he probably had. Lukas assumed he would have something like that.

Lukas couldn't see a skill list of the characters he gained in the gacha.

The number of goblins rapidly decreased; Lukas found it highly satisfying to watch Abarai cut all those monsters in half so smoothly. He had even forgotten to start moving.

Marcus, who realized that he was no longer needed, sighed and walked over to where his friends were standing.

He took one last look at Lukas but said nothing. He felt nervous; he didn't know Lukas or that guy with absurd strength. He wanted to avoid getting too involved with these two.

Even if they had helped him and his friends.

"Right. I guess it's my turn. If I don't do anything, I'll run out of experience points." The goblins realized they couldn't do anything against Abarai and began slowly retreating.

Abarai left mountains of severed bodies wherever he passed. He had probably killed more than $\frac{1}{3}$ of all the goblins in less than 10 minutes. It was something insane.

Lukas ran over the bodies and approached Abarai.

"Abarai, stay back!"

"Right!"

Hearing Lukas' voice, Abarai leaped backward and, as if flying, fell meters back. Lukas then activated the new magic skill he had bought using the system.

A large group of goblins was trapped in a small corridor, and it was there that he attacked.

"Fire Storm."

A small harmless ball of fire came out of his hand. And at high speed, it flew into the middle of the group of goblins. However, the fireball that seemed harmless became a massive ball of flames that engulfed everything within a radius of 20 meters.

The entire group of goblins on the spot and others around were swallowed by the burning flames of Lukas' magic.

[You killed a goblin! +10]

[You killed a goblin! +10]

[You killed a goblin! +10]

[You killed a goblin!]

Lukas was bombarded with notifications again. He was on the verge of going crazy but excited. Abarai, looking from a distance, was surprised at the power of Lukas' magic.

He had seen attacks more powerful than this one before, but it was still surprising.

To him, Lukas didn't have much power; he looked like an average human.

'I can feel something strange coming from him. It's not Reiatsu or any power. It's a strange energy.' And when he used his magic, the energy intensified and caused Abarai to shiver a little.

There was something strange about that masked guy; he didn't want to find out what it was. She hoped to get this over with as soon as possible and get out of there because he felt things would get complicated.

And he wasn't in the mood to take care of complicated things. Especially things that had nothing to do with him.

####

Lukas' magic had been quite effective. A large number of goblins had been burned to ashes. The ash fell onto the dungeon floor, and the smell of burning flesh filled the place.

The remaining goblins, frightened by the power of Lukas's magic, grew cautious and did not want to attack.

"Abarai, we are dealing with the rest of them now. There are still quite a few left, fleeing the dungeon's corridors. Let's go after all of them."

"All of them? Now that we've dealt with the emergency, do we need to do that?"

"The more goblins we kill here, the bigger the reward at the end, so let's do it."

"Reward?"

"I don't have time to explain that; let's go after them." There were still over 100 goblins to be killed. However, they had scattered around the dungeon after Abarai killed most of them, and Lukas's magic scared them off.

Lukas thought it would be more difficult. He was surprised at how easy it was to deal with the goblins.

However, that was only possible thanks to Abarai.

'His strength can probably be equated to a high-level Rank B [Player]. But he is not as strong as a Rank A.' Lukas wondered which Rank that group that came to deal with the tiger problem was in.

Were they high-Rank players?

'I don't know who sent them to this place, but they sure underestimated the abilities of that tiger. Those guys couldn't even handle goblins.' However, Lukas couldn't handle all those monsters by himself either.

But he is only a Rank E Player, so it makes sense that he can't handle it.

A group that was sent to deal with a mysterious beast like that tiger can't suffer from fighting against goblins, even if it is a large amount of them. Lukas began to find the association rather irresponsible.
