

AGE PROGRESSION NEWS SPECIAL REPORT: Zendaya

By ChronoEclipse

Jenna Wanamaker: “Hello! And welcome back to APN Special Report - the only news program that deals with the rapid age changes that happen unexpectedly and on a regular basis all around the world. I’m Jenna Wanamaker reporting.”

Jenna Wanamaker: “Zendaya. Arguably the hottest star of the past year with buzzworthy roles in both Dune and Spider-Man: No Way Home. The talented actress was set to have another big year in 2022 with the second part of the Dune epic due to come out this October in addition to a number of other high profile projects on her schedule.”

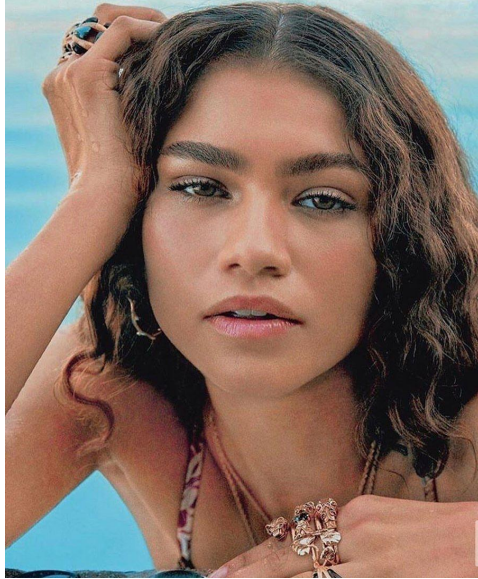

Jenna Wanamaker: “That was before January 1st when the A-list starlet woke in her bed to find herself suddenly more than 60 years older!”

Zendaya: “It’s totally nuts. I don’t know what happened to me. I crashed in my bed on new year’s eve and woke up the next morning all wrinkly and lookin’ like my grandma!”

Jenna Wanamaker: “We caught up with the former beauty in her L.A. home. The actress now needs a walker to get around, and a hearing aid to understand my questions. She looked good for her age, if her age had been 90 and not 25. It was a surreal experience sitting down with the frail grandmotherly woman that just this week had been dubbed ‘Sexiest Woman Alive’ by Glamour magazine.”

Shows the elderly actress a picture of the magazine cover. Zendaya slowly puts on a pair of bifocals and holds the magazine in her trembling hands.

Zendaya: “Oh yeah right. The editors reach out to say that they were considering touching up this photo to more resemble me now...”

She fumbles for a few moments tapping her phone with a gnarled finger and then holds up a photoshopped image on the screen

Jenna Wanamaker: “Is this your new normal? Or will you be dyeing your hair and booking some face lifts and tummy tucks in the near future?”

Zendaya: “No, no... this is me so I’m going to own it. I’m not gonna say I earned all my wrinkles because... like I literally just got them all over night. But I’ve always really respected the older women in Hollywood who didn’t get any work done, they just let the world see their authentic saggy old selves. So I want to be like that... I mean unless the doctors find a way to make me like, actually young again. Because I’d take that! Hahaha!”

Jenna Wanamaker: “But fans of the young, beautiful Zendaya shouldn’t hold out hope of seeing her on the big screen any time soon?”

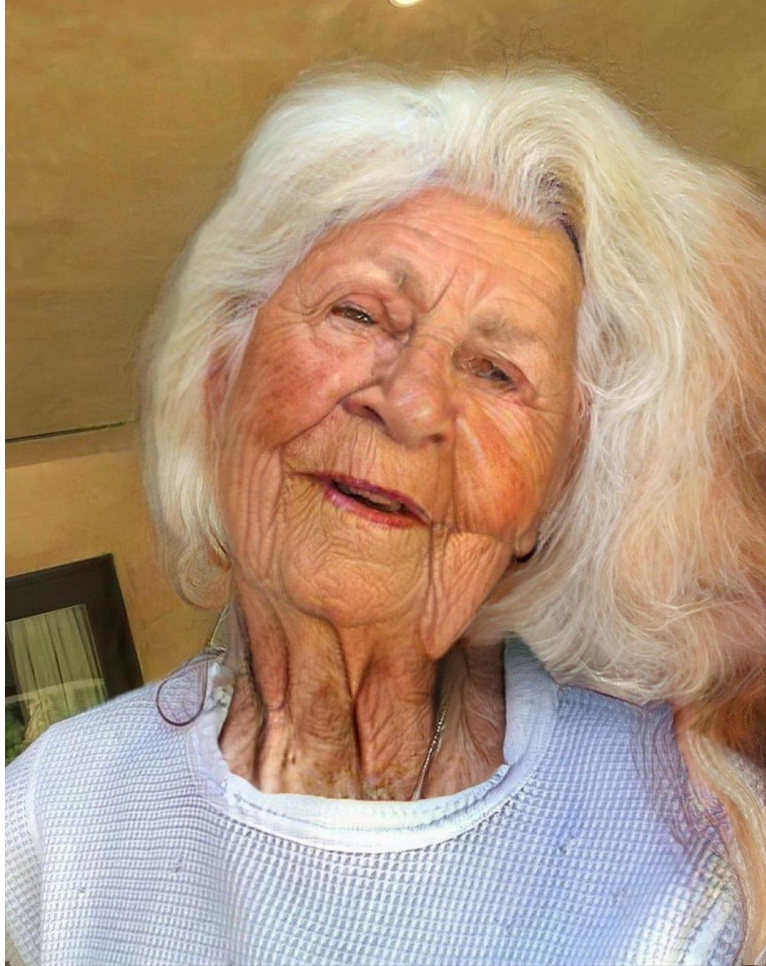

Zendaya: “Nope. When Dune 2 comes out in the fall that’ll be the last time they’ll get to me with smooth skin, dark hair and a perky butt! After that it’s just gonna be wrinkly old Granny Zendaya popping up, when I have the energy.”

Jenna Wanamaker: “Are you in talks with Sony now about playing Aunt May in the next Spider-Man reboot?”

Zendaya: “Ha! Believe it or not my agent actually called them yesterday about the potential of that and they told her that I’m too OLD to play Aunt May now... the doctors aren’t exactly sure how much I age but everyones guessing that I’m about the same age as Rosemary Harris and she played Aunt May like two decades ago!”

Jenna Wanamaker: “So what can we look forward to seeing this new OLD you in then?”

Zendaya: “Honestly? I did some screen tests this week for old lady roles - Tom really wants me to play his grandmother in this project he’s on and they’re talking about a remake of the Titanic where i’d play Old Rose. But... it’s not for me. I just don’t have enough energy anymore - which sucks because I practically had too much energy when I was young! But I nap a lot now and I just can’t get around a film set like I could a few weeks ago.”

Jenna Wanamaker: “So you’re retiring? Calling a quits to your acting career?”

Zendaya: “Call it what you want. I just can’t keep up anymore. Acting is a young person’s game and that’s not exactly how someone would describe me anymore... being an old person is pretty chill though. I mostly take naps or sit outside and feed the birds or like, stare off into the sky for a while.

Jenna Wanamaker: “I have to say - you’re taking the loss of your youth incredibly well. I don’t think I’d be half as calm about it as you are?”

Zendaya: shrugs her bony shoulders “I’ve always been a body positive person so if I like, freaked out and just cried myself to sleep every day over losing my youth overnight I’d be a total hypocrite... Oh you want to see something cool?”

The old woman reaches up and pulls her dentures out of her mouth, giving the camera a gummy smile.

Zendaya: “Dees ah a pehfect wecweation of mah weal teef!”

Jenna Wanamaker: Refusing to take the dentures from the old woman “I’m sorry... you said that they are a perfect recreation of your real teeth?”

Zendaya nods her wrinkled head.

Jenna Wanamaker: “Wow that’s... impressive. I could hardly tell they were dentures...”

Zendaya pops the fake teeth back into her mouth.

Zendaya: “Thanks... Well, thanks for stopping by. I’m getting pretty sleepy so I think I’m gonna go take another nap.”

Zendaya’s Personal assistant: “I’m sorry Miss Zendaya, you have Tom coming by later and we need some time to er... change you and get you cleaned up beforehand.”

Jenna Wanamaker: “Ooo um... we’ll leave you to it then. Thanks for speaking with us Zendaya and good luck with your new age!”

Jenna Wanamaker: “Well you heard it here first! The movie star Zendaya announces her retirement from acting at age 25!”

Jenna Wanamaker: “Wait... I’m having some trouble reading the teleprompter... why does my back ache all of a sudden? Wait... Are you making me old!?”

Jenna Wanamaker: “Does this mean I'm fired? I thought that interview with Zendaya went really well! What do you mean a van is coming by to take me to a local nursing home? I just turned 30!”
