

Chapter 159 - Tomorrow will be a fun day.

By the end of the day, the atmosphere had become more tense. Bell, Hestia, and Lili didn't even want to talk. They were too focused on tomorrow.

The War game was already being talked about a lot.

Since it was an important event, the War game would be broadcasted all over Orario. And whoever lost would suffer humiliation, and their reputation would be lost. That was why Hestia was so tense.

What would become of her Familia if we lost this war game?

Apollo would surely dissolve the Hestia Familia and exile Hestia from Orario, just like what happened to him in the original story.

"You don't have to be so nervous." I put my hand on Hestia's shoulder. We were sitting on the couch, and Lili and Bell were at the table, finishing dinner. Hestia wasn't feeling hungry, so I ate quickly to be beside her.

I wanted to calm her down.

"I already told you that I can't stay calm in this situation. Tomorrow could be the last day of my Familia..." I felt the weight of Hestia's words. She was terrified. And I can understand her.

Before Bell, Lili, and I joined her Familia, she always lived alone, and nobody wanted to join her Familia. Now that she has us, losing her Familia would be a massive disgrace to her.

But I wouldn't let that happen. Even if I had to lose both legs or arms, I wouldn't lose this war.

I hugged Hestia and put her head on my shoulder. She closed her eyes and took a deep breath, trying to calm herself. We stayed together for long minutes until Bell got up from the table.

He looked at me and Hestia and gave a smile.

"Goddess, isn't it time for us to sleep? We need to sleep well tonight to wake up willing tomorrow."

"Yes..." Hestia answered Bell and got up. She and Lili went upstairs to the second floor together, and only Bell and I continued downstairs. He looked into my eyes and clenched his fists.

"We can't lose tomorrow. No matter what." I could see a flame in his eyes. His fighting spirit was enviable.

"Don't worry, there's not the slightest chance we'll lose this war. Tomorrow I'll go straight to their captain and end it as quickly as possible."

"Are you sure you can do that? I know you're stronger than me, but this is a bit much."

"Yes, don't worry, I just need you to keep the other members of the Apollo Familia busy. Before they even realize it, I'll already have their captain on my hands."

"You seem confident about that..."

"I already told you, we won't lose. Just trust me."

Bell sighed and gave a smile. "We'll win tomorrow."

After Bell went to his room and left me alone in the living room, I opened my Status.

I had moved my Stats up quite a bit, and I have some skill points. Also, I masturbated a few times to gain a skill, but that didn't happen.

"I didn't get any new skills. Anyway, the ones I have are enough." The body-strengthening skill and wind control will be enough for my plan.

If I activate my body-strengthening skill and use wind control magic to fly over the wall and go to Clio, I can win this war quickly. And they won't have any countermeasures.

People are on top of the walls as far as I can remember, but I'll not have any trouble with them if I use magic.

'Yes, it won't be difficult.' I opened my inventory and looked at my two swords and the many potions I had. 'Should I buy something else?' The goddess store had many things for sale.

I decided to spend all the skill points I had on something.

I didn't need weapons or potions, so I searched for items that could help me. Like an item that would increase my strength. Is there such a thing here as an RPG game?

I searched the store for long minutes until I found rings, necklaces, and bracelets. "Yes, that's it." Bracelets were out of the question, so I looked for a ring or a necklace.

The system had plenty of them, cheap and expensive.

"And they're really like RPG game items. This one increases my agility, this one increases my strength. There's even one to increase my magic." The value of all of them was 1,000 points.

Of course, the increase could have been better.

They would increase my strength, agility, and magic by only 10%. But considering the high numbers of my basic abilities, 10% is a significant increase.

"Since I won't be having sex anymore tonight, this increase in my basic skills will be very welcome."

I bought the rings and put them on my fingers. Each one had a different colored gemstone in it. And they all disappeared as soon as they were put on my fingers. However, as soon as I wished for them to appear, they appeared.

They could even hide. How convenient.

"Now I think I'll go lie down and rest. Tomorrow will be quite a fun day."
